

PRESS RELEASE: NAHSE-WMAC Elects New Chapter President for Two-Year Term

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

January 24, 2018

Washington, D.C. – The National Association of Health Services Executives Washington Metropolitan Area Chapter (NAHSE-WMAC) has elected Deon Norals, president and CEO of iHealth Innovative Solutions as its new chapter president for the 2018 -2020 term. As the new chapter president, Mr. Norals encouraged the organization to focus on pioneering new approaches to learning and teaching that build on the transformative potential of digital communications to disseminate emerging insights into new health outcomes.

“We must continue to exemplify the centrality of meaning, values and creativity in the mission of NAHSE. The world’s challenges have never been more pressing, complex, or shared. I am committed to mobilizing NAHSE’s intellectual and resources to fully realize that promise,” Mr. Norals said.

Mr. Norals promised that under his leadership, the community will continue to focus on providing members with engagement, information, thought leadership and opportunities to help members achieve positive outcomes in delivering solutions for health. He asked that members share with him their experiences, thoughts for the future for NAHSE, and areas for health innovations.

The new president thanked NAHSE-WMAC members who reached out to him with congratulations and with ideas for adding value to NAHSE memberships. Mr. Norals noted that the NAHSE membership has the talent, opportunity, and passionate and dedicated membership to make big strides in changing health outcomes for underserved communities.

The NAHSE mission is to promote the advancement and development of minority health care leaders and elevate the quality of health care services rendered to minority and underserved communities.
